Richard Hill one of Ogden's oldest and most respected citizens, is very ill at his residence and little hope is entertained for his recovery. He is suffering from paralysis and is unable to move or speak. Mr. Hill has filled many public offices during his lifetime in Ogden and has hosts of friends who deeply sympathize with himself and family in their affliction.

Miss Grace Steed was married Saturday night to Will Stone, and the couple left on the midnight train for Idaho. The wedding was a complete surprise, even to the relatives of the bride and groom. The bride is a daughter of Al Steed and a little over 18 years of age. The groom is a son of Moroni Stone, and has just turned 21. Of late he has been working in Idaho, but a day or two ago returned and arranged for a secret wedding with his sweetheart. The license was secured late Saturday night and the couple went immediately to the Methodist parsonage, where the Rev. J. W. Taylor united them. Henry Turner attended the groom and Miss May Conroy accompanied the bride.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the county clerk of the Gold Mountain Plute Mining company. Thomas Champneys, J. H. Pierce, H. O. Lawrence, Charles Hilton and J. D. McDonell are the incorporators. The capital stock of the company is placed at $5,000, divided into 500,000 shares of the par value of one cent a share and is non-assessable. Thomas Champneys is president, J. H. Pierce vice-president and H. C. Lawrence secretary and treasurer, and they with the others named above, form the directors of the company. The new corporation will develop the Cyclone, the Monitor, the American Eagle and the Black Diamond mining claims, situated in the Gold Mountain Mining district, in Plute county. The length of time for which the company shall exist is fifty years.

It is alleged that the water was furnished between October, 1899, and September, 1900, and that Parry has refused to pay for the service.

An old gentleman, named August Brann, who weighs about 250 pounds created quite a diversion for a number of belated citizens early Sunday morning by falling over the embankment of the Ogden river near Washington avenue. Although the water is very swift it is only about three feet deep at this point. He was extricated from his uncomfortable position after about 20 minutes maneuvering on the part of the rescuers. He seemed to have suffered but little from his experience.
