

OSBORNE-FARLEY.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Osborne, 2208 Monroe avenue, was the scene of gay festivities Wednesday evening, September 25th, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Ella, to Mr. LeRoy Farley, son of Winthrop and Mary E. Hastings Farley. The young couple were married that day in the Salt Lake Temple and returned on the evening train to find the home filled with a host of friends and relatives, who had come to see the young couple safely launched on their voyage over life's sea. Sociability and mirth was the order of the evening, between sixty and seventy guests being in attendance. A bountiful spread of all good things was provided for those present under the direct supervision of the bride's father. The happy couple were recipients of many valuable and useful tokens of the esteem in which they were held, and they begin their life of mutual joy, sunshine and happiness with the most earnest well-wishes of their many friends.

Among those present were: Mrs. Mary E. Farley, Mrs. Lydia Farley, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Bluth, daughter and son; Mr. and Mrs. F. W.
